RECONSTRUCTION STARTS ON EUREKA & PALISADE ROAD

ENGINEER AND SURVEYORS ARE NOW LOCATING EIGHT MILE OF NEW ROAD.

The news brought to Eureka from Palisade recently by J. A. Gilbert that an engineer and two surveyors had commenced the work of locating a new railroad out of Palisade for the Eureka & Palisade railway, was most welcome to Eureka, and Mr. Gilbert was given the glad hand and kept busy for some time repeating the good tidings.

Gilbert says the work now being done out of Palisade for the E. & P. is to determine the cost of building the road through the narrows on the east side of the canyon and for a distance of about eight miles, it being figured that this distance will about cover the badly washed out portion of the old road, and by running a grade along the hills on the east side of the canyon it is hoped to escape any future flood waters.

When the E. & P. roadbed was washed out and the company put out of business about 18 months ago, the water not only washed out the road through the narrow canyon, but it cut deep gorges in many places and left the narrow passage way in such a condition that to rebuild a railroad through the canyon now presents some engineering and much difficult work, and it is generally stated that the cost of rebuilding this eight miles will amount to considerable more than will be necessary to repair the other 76 miles into Eureka. Had it not been for this eight miles of difficult and costly work, there is little doubt but that the E. & P. would have been operating trains over the road in thirty days after the wash out.

Besides the engineer and surveyors now at work near Palisade, one of the head men of a construction company is also there checking up the work, and he is no doubt preparing a bid for doing the construction work.

While the present work is only of a preliminary nature, it looks pretty good to the people at this end of the line, and bears out the prophesy of three weeks ago that it had then been decided to rebuild the road, and it was thought that some movement looking to this end would be made after September 1. Let the good work go on.

FITTING TRIBUTE TO NEVADA BOY

Chris Zabriskie, a Carson boy, who has made his way in the world and also to fortune, and now business manager of F. M. ("Borax") Smith, has placed a fitting tribute to the memory of the late Professor Howe.

Chris, like many of the other Carson boys who have worked up the ladder of the world's premiums, was one of the pupils who took his guiding steps from the professor. He always had a deep regard for the professor and the news of his death was received by Mr. Zabriskie with sorrow.

Chris, in order to perpetuate the memory of his tutor, has established a scholarship at the Nevada State university, consisting of $200 a year. The fund is in trust of Mrs. Howe and Professor Stubbs, of the university, and is known as the Howe Memorial scholarship.

George McCreery, of this city, won this scholarship this year and is now enjoying its benefits. He is a worthy young man and will make good both to the donor and to the memory of Carson's best known teacher. It is a fitting tribute to the old professor.

STATE BANK MUDDLE GETS ANOTHER DIP

CARSON CITY, Nev., Sept. 8.—The very many complexities of the famous State Bank case are becoming more complex, if possible, by the action taken by attorneys for the directors of the defunct institution. A writ of prohibition has been filed with the clerk of the supreme court by Attorney Massey and Summerfield.

While the contents of the writ has not been made public, still it is understood that it asks for all further action to be stopped in the case until matters covered in the new banking law have been fully decided and complied with.

It is claimed by some of the attorneys for the directors of the late lamented institution that the bank examiner is empowered by certain sections of the banking law passed at the last legislature (other than that decided to be unconstitutional by the supreme court) to take charge of the defunct banks as a receiver and this question will undoubtedly be thrashed out before the case will be taken up again in the district court.

The real desire of the writ is evidently that of preventing Judge Langan from continuing with the case on the 11th inst. as per the present program until the supreme court has passed upon the banking act as a whole.
